About cannaQIX®

cannaQIX® is the first standardised nutraceutical containing organic hemp extract with CBD, vitamins and zinc aiming to reduce stress and to support mental and nervous functions.

This effect is achieved due to its unique synergistic formula containing standardised full plant hemp extracts with CBD and seed oil, vitamins, zinc, and capsicum. By supplementing the body with needed cannabinoids, it contributes to a well-balanced endocannabinoid system in the body and regulates homeostasis.

The product is safe, well tolerated, non-euphoric, not-addictive and sugar free. The standardised user friendly strength and formulation allows a precise dosage control assuring a reliable and stable effect over several days.

The innovative buccal delivery formulation provides good absorption and high bioavailability.

The cannaQIX® pastilles work faster and more efficiently than tablets or capsules which need to be swallowed and have a high percentage of their ingredients broken down and wasted when absorbed through the intestine and passed first through the liver. They are formulated to dissolve in the mouth and the active ingredients enter the blood stream directly through the mouth cavity, avoiding this first pass through the liver.

The proprietary QIX-technology-based delivery system contains capsicum, which accelerates the blood circulation in the mouth enhancing the buccal, sublingual delivery of the CBD, the vitamins and the zinc into the bloodstream.

With its pleasant taste, cannaQIX[®] supports continued use amongst consumers and differs markedly from the usually very bitter hemp oils or extracts.

cannaQIX[®] is confirmed compliant with the Swiss Federal Food Law 2017 and is produced in Switzerland in a Good Manufacturing Practice facility by Creso's partner Swiss-based food and pharma development company, Domaco, Dr. med Aufdermaur AG (Domaco) to the highest Swiss quality and with a "Swiss Made" label.

With cannaQIX[®], Creso offers a safe and effective certified Food Supplement with broad access and no need for medical prescriptions.

Creso Pharma books first revenues in 2018

Creso Switzerland is pleased to report that it has booked its first revenues totaling CHF 230,000 (A$311,940) from the initial sale of cannaQIX[®] and from the sales of its anibidiol[®] animal health product.

Following the first three months of sales of the anibidiol[®] CBD complementary feed product for companion animals, the commercial partnership with Virbac AG Switzerland points to a successful launch and an effective start to the commercial partnership. As well as broad regional media coverage of the product, Virbac AG also reports excellent feedback by veterinaries and pet owners.

anibidiol[®] supports the immune and defence systems of companion animals and contributes to balanced behavior.

Due to the unique formulation and positioning of cannaQIX[®], combined with the current interest in CBD products and their effectiveness in animal and human health, Creso also expects a very successful launch of cannaQIX[®] in the Swiss market.

Broad Consumer PR in May

Doetsch Gerther AG will launch cannaQIX in Switzerland in March. Once a broad distribution is achieved a second wave of communication will be launched towards consumers via health and lifestyle journalists as well as bloggers. Magazines will be asked to launch product tests and invite their readers for a product trial of cannaQIX. Online communication accompanies this activity.
